Driver Given 30 Days

A 22-year-old Bloomfield man was ordered in magistrate court committed to the Scott County jail Tuesday by Judge John Sides for 30 days after pleading guilty to a charge of driving without a license.

Judge Sides asked Billy Ray Baker if he had ever had a license and Baker said he hadn't. The judge then handed down the sentence noting:

"This will give you 30 days to read your rules book and get ready to pass the test upon your discharge."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Wilson represented the state in 16 cases before judge Sides.

Check charges dominated the docket with four appearing in court charged with offenses from forgery to insufficent funds.

Roger Healey, a former Sikeston resident now of Mississippi, waived a formal hearing and pleaded guilty to issuing bad checks of more than $400. Judge Sides handed down a $100 fine, one-year jail sentence and two-year probation on recommendation of Scott County Prosecutor Tom Gilmore. The jail sentence was stayed on condition of restitution of the checks.

John Lett Jr., Sikeston, has his preliminary hearing set for May 1 on a charge of forgery. Clarence Cecil had bond set at $1,000 on a similar charge.

Two Potosi youths, Daniel Row Wilson and Billy Joe Wilson, had their preliminary hearings set for April 11 on a charge of passing a no funds check at P. N. Hirsch Co.

Writing a $25 insufficient funds check to Liberty Super Market brought a six-month jail term and one-year probation to Argel Kellett of 242 Daniel. The jail term would be suspended upon payment of court costs and restitution of check.

Nora Woodson, route four Sikeston, appeared on a charge of no operators license and was levied a $5 fine and costs after showing the court that she had passed the test for her license.

A $5 fine was levied against Leroy Bonds of Bell City on a charge of defective brakes.

Clifford Love Dugan, Charleston, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 65-mile zone and was fined $20 and court costs.

John Stucker, rural Matthews, had his case continued at request of his attorney. He was charged with driving without an operators license.

A non-support charge against Louis Jimmerson, 105 Westgate, was denied him. Trial was set for May 9.

Lawrence Boley, Bell City, was fined $10 and costs on a careless and imprudent driving charge.

Maynard Lee Sisler, Kennett, charged with driving while intoxicated and showing 18 per cent on the breathalizer, had his case continued until April 11.

Allard Johnson, Morley, had bond set at $500 after appearing with council before the court on a charge of driving, using and operating W. J. McMikle's car without his consent.

John Richmond Lewis, Jr., 222Kramer, had a charge of failure to display inspection certificate dismissed on recommendation of the prosecutor.

Light Voter Turnout

Voters weren't exactly standing in lines to vote this morning in the municipal and school board elections.

By 11 a.m. only 332 of the 7,213 registered voters in Sikeston had bothered to cast ballots. Morehouse and Miner each had 35 votes cast. In Salcedo, only 15 people had voted.

Voters in Sikeston are seeking two new councilmen among Bill Ryan, Frank Ferrell, Theon Grojean, and Mrs. Virginia Waters.

In Morehouse, voters are choosing between John L. Eaker, James Kindle, Gary L. Garrison, Nobel Gaston and Wayne H. Lovette for two council seats.

In Miner, Harold Lewis and Bill Wooley, C.R. Simpson, Fred Gilliland, and L. F. Wheeler are candidates for the town board.

Seeking the election to the R-6 School Board are Phil Barkett, Lee Shell, Louis Wiggins, Richard McDougal, and Mrs. Paul "Claudette" Holden.

E.L. Stubbs and Boyd Duff are unopposed for re-election to the Scott County School Board.

Factory To Close Again

The Anchor Toy factory will close in the next 60 to 90 days it was announced yesterday by Cliff Weitzen, an executive of Miner Industries.

Miner Industries has been managing the operation of the Transogram Company under the supervision of federal courts for nine months.

Weitzen said "Transogram is deeply appreciative to the town of Sikeston and for the cooperation and loyalty of the employes as well as Local 1599 of the United Auto Workers."

Transogram filed in 1970 under chapter II of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. At that time plant officials said the bankruptcy was due to an uncertain future of the financial conditions of the company.

The plant closed its doors March 26, 1971, but reopened them two months later for a small crew in limited production.

Weitzen said nothing has been done to sell the plant. He said he has just started putting out feelers and, will begin talking to real estate companies soon.

Weitzen added he hopes to sell the plant to someone in industry so employes can keep their jobs.

He said to date few people have shown an interest in the plant.

The council met briefly yesterday and adjourned until Wednesday when it will accept the results of today's election and may elect a new mayor.

This week's meeting was the last for City Manager Raymert Miller, Mayor Lee Shell and Councilman Kenneth Bridger.

WHAT IS HE LEARNING?

The average American pre-schooler spends 64 per cent of his time watching television. By the age of 14, this child will have seen 18,000 murders on TV. By the age of 17, some 350,000 commercials. In the course of his life the TV will have consumed 10 years of his time. These facts were compiled by Dr. Gerald Looney of the University of Arizona.

In his remarks to the American Academy of Pediatrics, Dr. Looney declared that television, "the electronic intruder," has replaced both parent and teacher as the primary educator of children. Just in terms of time alone, Dr. Looney points out, the American pre-school child during his critical pre-school years spends more time watching TV than he would in the classrooms during four years of college. And what is he learning?

FOOD PRICE WAR

Back in the fall of 1966 housewives in a score of cities started boycotting supermarkets in a protest against runaway food prices. On Oct. 17 of that year some 10,000 housewives picketed five Denver supermarket chains, chanting "down with frills, stamps and gimmicks." Food prices did go down sharply soon thereafter, whatever the reason.

This year food prices are again rising sharply. The consumer price index for foods rose 1.9 per cent in February, which works out to a staggering annual rate of 22.8 per cent. Beef cattle prices have reached their highest point in 20 years. Consumers are up in arms, as usual, but the difference from five years ago is that this time some supermarkets are leading the protest.

Full-page advertisements in Washington newspapers on March 21 and 22 told consumers to "buy something else" until prices come down. The ads were placed by the 94-store Giant Food chain over the signature of its consumer adviser, Mrs. Esther Peterson. She is a former White House consumer adviser and Assistant Secretary of Labor in the Johnson administration. Mrs. Peterson's buy-less-meat campaign stresses that one reason for the high meat prices is that livestock prices are not controlled under President Nixon's economic program. (All raw farm products are exempt from controls.)

The food inflation problem is creating division within the Nixon administration. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz claims agriculture "is highly competitive, sometimes harshly so, and is therefore not in need of controls." He blames consumers for bidding up food prices. But C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission, assailed the Butz position on March 17 and declared that farmers must make the same sacrifices as other Americans to hold down prices. The administration has "no present intentions" of clamping controls on farm goods. Meanwhile, the Price Commission will hold hearings on food prices on Wednesday, April 12, in Washington in an attempt to clear the air.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE CASHLESS SOCIETY?

One of the more intriguing predictions by financial "futurists" a while back had to do with a subject of universal interest- money. As they saw it, currency would soon go out of style. Cash would play an ever smaller role in financing economic activity. A "cashless society," they predicted with much certitude, was just around the corner.

In such a society, people might keep a little folding money and a few coins for small transactions. But for the most part, people would pay for things by bookkeeping entries -- via checkbook or the credit card.

Today, a dozen years after such predictions of currency-less society, the money millennium has yet to arrive. Indeed, the United States has become, if anything, a more-cash-than-ever society.

According to the Morgan Guaranty Survey, the amount of paper money and coin in circulation (which excludes amounts held by the U. S. Treasury and Federal Reserve Banks) has risen sharply over the past decade and, at nearly $61 billion, stands at a new high.

Individuals hold the great bulk of this cash. Currency holdings by businesses -- mostly as "till" money -- account for only about 20 per cent of total cash outstanding. Contrary to the famous Willie Sutton quotation, banks aren't where the money is either. Their working cash balances range between $7 and 8 billion.

In per-capita terms, currency outstanding amounts to $292 for each man, woman, and child in the nation -- compared with only $182 per capita in 1960. And in comparison with earlier periods in the U. S., today's holdings of currency -- despite the checkbook and credit card – are much higher. In the period from 1892 to 1917, per-capital currency holdings fluctuated within a range of $14 to $22. Between 1918 and 1939 the range was only $27 to $46. Even after allowing for today's larger population and for inflation so-called real per-capita holdings of cash now are more than 50 per cent higher than they were in 1939.

Puzzling, too, is the pattern that has developed in the rise in currency by denomination. It is the big bills -- $50 and $100 -- that have shown the steepest rate of increase. For instance, more than $13 billion in $100 bills is now outstanding, more than double the amount in 1960.

Actually, there are some clues to help solve the great cash mystery -- in part, at least.

Behind this rise in coin output, in part, in operation of one of the oldest principles in economics: Gresham's Law -- "bad" money drives out "good." A rising price for silver made the old coins (90 per cent silver, 10 per cent copper versus today's 75 per cent copper, 25 per cent nickel face, bonded to a copper one) worth more. Silver coins rapidly disappeared into private hoards. Collectors are contributing in other ways to the rising demand for coins.

The proliferation of local sales taxes, at even higher rates, has increased the need for coins. Another major coin user is the vending machine industry.

Tax evasion is believed to be significant in the demand for currency. Gamblers and racketeers to white-collar professionals and blue-collar "moonlighters" receive payment in cash so that there is no record. Much of this moneywinds up -- unreported for taxes -- in safe deposit boxes, under the mattresses or in fruit jars.

There is nothing new in such cash hoarding. But with inflation nudging more people's money incomes into higher tax brackets, the temptation to hold reported income as low as possible may be increasing.

What seems abundantly clear is that cash money is not about to go out of style. If the experts are holding their breath for a cashless society, they'll be breathless long before they are cashless.

PRETTY FACE SYNDROME

Discrimination against unattractive women, declared Washington Post columnist William Raspberry recently, is the most pervasive form of employment discrimination. If their features were more attractive, the "real dogs" would be working in more visible positions or in more responsible jobs, Raspberry wrote. This is a kind of discrimination rarely admitted to by employers. No personnel director will tell a woman, "Sorry, lady, but you need a nose job and your lips don't match." And the victim isn't likely to turn the insult into a public issue.

Attractiveness may indeed be a measure of employability -- or of education, social acceptance and future well-being, according to an article in Psychology Today (March 1972). Physical appearance stereotypes are absorbed as early as nursery-school age. In the authors' experiments, attractive children were assumed by their classmates and teachers to be more pleasant, better behaved and more intelligent than the unattractive ones. This physical -beauty stereotype becomes a lifelong liability or asset in conventional society.

The plain little girl who was rejected in nursery school is more likely to be unnoticed in high school, rejected for the receptionists's job and passed over for dates. "Usually we get around to taking a second look," said the article. "... However, many of our interactions with other persons are once-only or infrequent. We have limited exposure to job applicants, defendants in jury trials and political candidates, yet on the basis of initial impressions we make decisions that affect their lives." Hardly anyone expects fulfillment of the Women's Lib demand that there be less preoccupation with beauty. But for those unhappily confined within their skins, to suffer the snap judgment of "just another ugly face" is certainly a cruel and phychologically damaging experience.

LAND USE

Farmers aren't the only ones who benefit from the use of pesticides. Any of us who enjoy a day outdoors benefit, too. Without pesticides and agricultural technology, much of the land now available for wildlife and recreation would have to be cultivated. In addition to the 320 million acres of crops now harvested, it is estimated that over 300 million acres — equal to the area of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama — would be needed to feed the U. S. population.

EAST HAMPTON, Conn. (AP) — I finally got Ed Barton's Christmas card.

Neither rain nor snow nor the waters of Long Island Sound— not even a band of mail thieves could stay this yule greeting.

There was a slight delay, however. It was postmarked Dec. 23, 1970.

Ed writes he's fine. The card isn't.

It looks like it was stomped on, chewed and used as a raft. The ink is smeared, the righthand side is gone and stamped in purple ink above the address are the words: "This piece of mail, stolen while in custody of the Postal Service, is being delivered after recovery from waters of Long Island Sound."

Postal Inspector Robert DeLong related the card's journey:

It began in Ithaca, N.Y., and was uneventful till it reached the New Haven, Conn., post office for delivery to Norwalk, where I lived at the time.

It was loaded aboard a "star route" truck, a private vehicle under contract with the Postal Service to carry mail—and there it met its fate.

DeLong said seven drivers and one of the wives formed a gang and began rifling firstclass mail pouches. They took money, credit cards, even firearms, he said, and threw the remains in the Quinnipiac River where they floated into the Sound.

Altogether, 50,000 pieces of mail, including my card, got thrown in the river between Thanksgiving and New Year's. The mail started showing up along the banks Christmas Day, but some of it floated across to New York State before it was found.

All eight were arrested, three served time, four got suspended sentences and the last case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

The inspector said the court held the mail for evidence for more than a year. Then the postmen had to put it all together, matching card with envelope. I'm sure they had no trouble with Ed's handwriting. It is unique.

About 95 per cent of the mail was returned, although some people just got envelopes.

"We have to deliver it, no matter how late it is," the postman said, as he handed me Ed's letter.

Ed's now back on our Christmas card list.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reminded drivers to yield the right- of- way to emergency vehicles.

"Drivers must yield the right- of -way to emergency vehicles approaching from either direction," Hockaday stated. "They must move as far to the right as possible and stop when an approaching emergency vehicle has its siren on or exhibits a red or authorized flashing blue light."

Missouri law states in part that upon the immediate approach of an emergency vehicle giving audible signal by siren or while having at least one lighted lamp exhibiting red light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of 500 feet to the front of such vehicle or an authorized flashing blue light, the driver of every other vehicle shall yield the right-of -way and shall immediately drive to a position parallel to, and as far as possible to the right of the traveled portion of the highway and thereupon stop and remain in such position until such emergency vehicle has passed, except when otherwise directed by a police or traffic officer.

The Patrol Superintendent then noted that it is often difficult for drivers to hear an emergency vehicle's siren when the windows are rolled up and the air conditioner or heater unit and the radio are in operation. For this reason, he urged drivers to always look and listen for approaching emergency vehicles and be prepared to take appropriate action.

"Emergency vehicles are used to carry personnel to a particular destination where some tragedy and loss has or may soon occur," Hockaday continued. "It is very disturbing to hear that another tragedy and loss has happened as a result of a collision between an emergency vehicle and another vehicle. Drivers must condition themselves to be alert for emergency vehicles and to yield the right of way to them."

ALSO SELLS GROCERIES

"WE WEIGH BABIES!" is the way an advertisement for an independent, neighborhood grocery in Alexandria, Va., starts off.

Not only that, but the ad continues:

"Loan Tools and Equipment -- Baby Sit -- Order Your Coal and Fuel -- Run Errands -- Take in Laundry and Dry Cleaning -- Push Stalled Cars -- Look for Stray Dogs -- Mail Packages and Letters -- Deliver Phone Messages -- Take Drunks Home.

"We have done all of the above and MORE to co-operate with our customers. These are only a few services that a small independent neighborhood grocer will do to accommodate his customers.

A DANGEROUS QUESTION

A consumer "activist and leader" in the consumer protests against rising prices of a few years ago has again taken to the stump protesting current prices in supermarkets with the comment,"...Why doesn't the government come out and say 'cut it out'?"

It is interesting to contemplate just what is involved in this remark. When the government assumes the power of telling merchants to "cut it out", the free market is dead, and no thinking consumer would wish this. It is the free market that brings the fascinating style changes in clothes, the innovations and conveniences found in the nation's stores and a general price level that in spite of inflation leaves consumers with the highest standard of living the world has ever known. Competition to meet ever-changing tastes of consumers in the marketplace means progress.

Even promotion and advertising are subject to the changing demands of consumers. A recent AP news feature describes how the catalogs of major trading stamp concerns endeavor to keep in tune with the trend. Trading stamp companies, like retail merchants, must satisfy consumers at redemption centers if they wish to stay in business. Of the 1,900 items in the catalog of one major stamp company, 600 are offered for the first time. Stay-press, soil-resistant tablecloths and no-iron sheets and pillowcases are popular, as are improved grooming aids for young working housewives who have neither the time nor the spare funds for a beautician.

These apparently are the things that consumer protectors would like to see eliminated when they speak of government telling the merchant to "Cut it out." If such a day ever comes, we are headed for the same kind of drab, unchaning existence prevalent in the iron curtain countries in Europe.

INDUSTRY BUILDS NEW SUBURB

A new suburbia is being created at the gateway to Massachusetts south shore, in North Quincy. The focal point of the 80-acre State Street South project will be a five-story 740,000 square foot electronic data processing and logistics center now under construction for Boston's State Street Bank and Trust Company.

More than 4,000 persons will service in excess of 1.4 million accounts here.

The Dunfey Family Corporation, recently acquired by the Aetna Life and Casualty of Hartford, Conn., is erecting a new 350-room motor hotel with several restaurants, cocktail lounges, swimming pool, and health club.

Underground electric lines and a new low-profile substation are being erected by the Massachusetts Electric Company. Two 115,000-volt transmission lines, the largest underground lines in the area, will carry the necessary power.

THE PATRIOT

A good word should be said for the honorable word, patriot, and all those who justly and proudly bear that name. For a time it seemed that the leftist opinion molders have succeeded incompletely defaming that good word and anyone who loved Truth and Freedom and Republic USA.

Now the tide is shifting. Apathy has borne its bitter fruits and the vast majority of the good working people who earn most of the income, pay most of the taxes and keep this civilization going are seeing their children bused across town, their taxes rising to pay for foreign "aid" to prop up socialist governments which despise us and to encourage shoddy thinking about work and technology in our schools and colleges.

The public is catching on that those who defame patriotism praise bloody dictators and murderers as their hero They wave enemy flags and apologize for every bloody deed of our Republic's enemies, while they attack every act of self-defense by individuals and nations opposing crime, communism and death.

The enemies of Truth and Freedom slander all of us with charges that we are blind to our national faults. Not true; we know there are many faults because human beings are not perfect. But we know that the bloody dictatorships of our enemies cannot even feed their people under Marxist economics. What patriots cannot understand is how a few of our own citizens never find fault with these bloody dictators in any confrontation with our own country. Patriots say, "My country, may she always be right!" The defamers of patriotism say, "My country is always wrong; her enemies are always right." It is not difficult to choose sides on that issue. Inside Labor

Construction Wages Booming: John Connally, In Closed Session, Gets Set For Showdown with labor in new pay crisis

WASHINGTON — Before secret papers become a drug on the market, it must be reported swiftly there are confidential documents in the dispatch case of a Harvard dean proving there will be a loud and bloody home-front war.

These records are virtually in the personal possession of the morganatically minded, avowedly rude Harvard scion, Prof. John Dunlop, who has invented a new mathmematics.

His artificial arithmetic camouflages the fact that the building and construction trade unions craftsmen are still getting the huge raises they were receiving a year ago when President Nixon, startled by $120 -a-week per-man wage increases, created the first stabilization board. This then is the anniversary of the effort to deflate the inflation with some sort of wage control system.

Dean Dunlop, somewhat a wraith at Harvard, was appointed chairman of that control board called the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC). Since then he has taken orders or directives from no one. Thus, the average construction wage increase is still running from $30 to $40 a week per craftsman. That's about 75 cents to a dollar an hour per man. Only difference is that the contracts have been cut back from three years to one or two years so the total on a 40-hour -week basis doesn't appear to be as much as that which originally inflated the land.

The average increase still is about 11.6 per cent -- or twice as much as that permitted the second class citizenry -- meaning the public.

No one questions Prof. Dunlop's erudition. But the time has come to protest his refusal to make public regularly the wage decisions of his own privy council -- the CISC, which is made up of labor and management delegates.

Otherwise all the jawboning with other union leaders, supermarket operators, and the rank-and -file wage earner will simply result in the upward blast of prices and wages.

In effect, Dean Dunlop has been telling government press officers, high Federal officials and even some White House people to go to hell. He just will not make his new mathematics or his reasoning or his awards or his self-classified documents public, or even deal regularly with the press though he holds the actual key to the anti-inflation fight in his tight hand.

Calls to the committee get answers like, "Well, we may have them in a month." Or, "Well, we really don't know what Mr. Dunlop thinks."

Well, the papers and reports were not really difficult to filch. The wage increase awards are high, though there are four or five unions which agreed to renew at a zero increase rate.

Big problem now is that we're almost in the first hours of the April -May- June quarter when hundreds of clustered major construction contracts expire. And Prof. Dunlop, who really rules the board for too many complex reasons to go into here, appears to keep giving the crafts huge wage increases.

This is the major issue. It's just as vital, perhaps more so, than the Longshoremen's duel. No machinist or auto worker or steel hand, et al., will sit still when he learns that a carpenter or bricklayer has just gotten a $40-a-week increase compared with the regular blue-collar worker's $16 or $20 a week.

Now, it's not generally recognized, but the CISC is just an operational division of the Pay Board. Last week some nine national construction union leaders who are on the AFL-CIO Executive Council voted to support labor's demarche and march from the board. But these same AFL—CIO vice presidents did not walk off the CISC, which is definitely part of this Pay Board.

And as such they will be told to take the Pay Board's edicts "or take their lumps," as one Pay Board member said.

"We're calling in Dunlop and his chaps," said one insider. "And we're going to tell them they're not privileged people. There is a stabilization law. That is policy. The Pay Board is a judicial body. And the construction unions will obey us."

In effect, this is what Pay Board Chairman, Judge Boldt told me recently. Certainly the Pay Board is functioning. On Friday, March 24, they went into session as a seven -- instead of a 15 -- man commission. They revised the regulations. It now takes four men, not eight, to make a decision; and four, not ten, are a quorum, and challenges of decisions can be made by two instead of five members.

So the board's voice will be heard across the land. And it's no gurgle. So will the voice of Treasury Secretary John Connally. The husky, 6-foot Texan is chairman of the all-powerful Cost of Living Council -- and he began sounding off at the session held the day after the labor members quit. Richard Nixon was in that room during thy Cost of Living Council meeting called by the Texan. Connally is ready to take on those labor leaders who want to joust. They can strike. They can tie up billions of dollars on construction. But the government can get tough too. So Prof. Dunlop's hand -- rather, his brief case -- is being called.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- The agenda used by a Senate Banking subcommittee for killing measures, intended to protect housewives from billing a-buses, was prepared and typed in the thick-carpeted suite of the American Bankers Association.

This intrusion of the banking lobby in the committee rooms of the Senate is brazen even by Washington standards. Yet so powerful are the bankers that the gutting of the bill is likely to stick.

The agenda was prepared by James Cash, a former Senate Banking Committee aide who is now the bankers' most deft lobbyist on Capitol Hill.

To make sure the banks were protected instead of the customers, the bankers put the agenda into the hands of one of their best friends in the Senate, capable Bill Brock, R-Tenn., son of a bank director.

Without informing his fellow Senators that the document was the work of the banking lobby, Brock requested it be adopted as the agenda, for a secret meeting of the subcommittee. Unaware of its origins, Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., agreed.

As one bank lobby recommendation after another passed, it was evident to the handful of pro-consumer Senators how thoroughly Brock and Cash had done their work.

In the secrecy of the committee room, for example, Brock and his allies knocked out a provision which would have allowed housewives to refuse to pay for shoddy merchandise. Voting against the housewives were Senators Wallace Bennett, R-Utah; John Tower, R-Tex.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; and Bob Packwood, R-Ore. The deciding vote was the proxy of one-time populist John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the parent Senate Banking Committee.

CONSUMER SABOTAGE

Knowing they were outside the hearing of the irate consumers, the Brock wrecking crew also permitted backdating of financing charges, which cost customers $200 million in 1971. They voted against a provision to block sky-high 60 per cent financing rates, also against a nother clause to prevent billing for undelivered merchandise.

Vainly backing the consumer in the closed session were Senators Proxmire, Harrison Williams, D-N.J.; Tom McIntyre, D-N.H.; and Walter Mondale, D-Minn.

When the tallies were all in, the banks had rammed through, wholly or in part, 15 of their 20 amendments. One weary senator muttered as he left the committee room: "We began with the Fair Credit Billing Act. We wound up with the Bank Protection Act of 1972."

My associate, Les Whitten, visited Cash in his surprisingly modest quarters tucked amid the splendor of the hushed banking lobby suite. At first Cash denied that the agenda was typed in his office.

But Whitten showed him samples we had obtained from his office typewriters which have distinctive characteristics. Confronted with the evidence, Cash acknowledged the work had been done by him and his aides.

Proxmire, meanwhile, was so upset that he has refused to put his name on the report, even though the original bill is his. He has promised a floor fight on the measure.

Footnote: Through a spokesman, Brock told us he was unaware the agenda was prepared by the banking lobby. A spokesman for the American Bankers Association insisted that it was only a "table of comparisons." If Brock used it as a formal agenda, he did it without the bankers' knowledge, said the spokesman.

ITT's EAVESDROPPING

Firms that rent telex circuits from ITT may not know it, but ITT has been sneaking peeks at their cable messages.

ITT memos, which escaped the corporate shredder, show that ITT has been secretly monitoring messages from such institutions as these:

Irving Trust, the First National City Bank of New York, the Bank of Tokyo, Beaunit Mills, Philippine National Bank, Central Gulf Steamship Lines, Koboyashi Metals, Babcock Wilcox, Transmundo, Kersten, Shipping and Long Quinn & Boylan.

One ITT memo titled "Private Wire Monitors" says mournfully: "Since the beginning of this effort, very little feedback has been received regarding its effectiveness."

Another memo on ITT letterhead requests headquarters to "please advise if we are to continue monitoring program."

In Washington, a worried ITT spokesman said the monitoring was only to ensure that telex toll charges were correct. This time, it appears, ITT may be telling the truth.

Our own probe shows that customers had complained that ITT was overcharging them. Apparently, ITT wanted to check for itself. As it turned out, 90 per cent of the customers' gripes were justified.

Traffic Fatality Study Man Hired

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Division of Highway Safety has employed a retired highway patrol captain, Paul E. Corl Sr. to analyze the causes of traffic fatalities, it was announced today.

Corl retired from the patrol in 1965.

The director of the division, Robert E. Burgess, said "Captain Corl will perform in-depth investigations of all fatal traffic crashes in Missouri while on assignment with this office." He said Missouri is the first state to launch such a study.

U.S. Ground Forces To Repel Reds Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ruled out for now the reintroduction of U.S. ground forces to repel the enemy thrust into South Vietnam. But he is holding open his option of sending waves of American war planes against North Vietnamese targets.

The President's stance was reported by reliable sources after Nixon and his top advisers held an urgent round of conferences Monday to ponder ways of countering the strongest Communist push since Tet of 1968.

As the strategy sessions continue, administration spokesmen are stressing that turning back the Communist offensive is a "South Vietnamese operation."

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler used that phrase twice at a Monday briefing where he reported Nixon was "watching the situation very closely."

Ziegler also cited as "totally reflective of the over-all administration view" a statement by State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey that the North Vietnamese attack was an invasion across the demilitarized zone in violation of the 1968 "understanding" between the United States and North Vietnam.

That 1968 understanding—although never acknowledged by North Vietnam—led President Lyndon B. Johnson to suspend bombing raids deep into North Vietnamese territory.

The McCloskey-Ziegler statements seemed to leave open the possibility of resuming U.S. air strikes well inside North Vietnam—a possibility later reinforced by disclosure of Nixon's position.

The sources' use of the word "reintroduction" in relation to U.S. ground forces apparently would allow Nixon to order remaining American combat troops to repulse any Communist attack on U.S. installations.

Nixon declared months ago that the U.S. ground-combat role had ended, and his reluctance to send U.S. troops into battle now fits with his expressed confidence that South Vietnam is prepared to withstand the long-expected Communist offensive.

Pentagon officials said seven U.S. combat maneuver battalions—totaling about 10,000 men—are still in Vietnam but are committed to the security of U.S. installations there.

Congress Expected To Boost GI-Bill Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to improve GI- Bill benefits for Vietnam veterans this year, but it is not yet clear when the lawmakers will act or how much they will provide.

Most observers readily concede that educational benefits available to Vietnam veterans are not as good as those provided for troops who returned form World War II and the Korean War.

The House already has approved a 48- per- cent increase in apprentice and on-the - job training programs, more money for job and school counseling, steps designed to cut red tape, and making some benefits available to veterans with less- than- honorable discharges.

The House also has called for a 14- per- cent hike in individual payments to veterans who return to school. That's higher than the 8- per-cent boost recommended by the Nixon administration, but Senate Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., has proposed pay increases up to nearly 40 per cent.

Hartke says his bill would bring Vietnam veterans' benefits up to the level enjoyed by World War II veterans by translating World War II benefit figures into 1972 dollars.

The Indiana senator's legislation would raise monthly benefits for single veterans going to school from the current $175 to $244.

Breast Feeding Allowed At Pool

SANTA CRUZ, CAlif. (AP) -- The only public swimming pool in Santa Cruz is allowing mothers to breast- feed their infants at the pool.

Three of the mothers did so Monday without interference. Last Friday, however, officials had asked one mother to stop.

"We're just not going to make any big deal about it," said Paul Thiltgen, the city's recreation superintendent. "The reason we acted in the first place on Friday was because we received a complaint."

He said there were no complaints Monday.

Ann Landers

Wife Has Answer To Hubby Bringing One Shoe Home

Dear Ann Landers: You have made so much trouble for me I considered a lawsuit. My cousin who is an attorney says I have no grounds but I want to tell you how your stinky column almost cost me my marriage.

I took the bus home from a lodge meeting a few weeks ago. I took off my shoes and closed my eyes. I've been riding the buses for years and never had any trouble. That night there were about 20 kids on the bus -- I think they were coming from a ballgame. My eyes weren't closed for more than 10 minutes and when I opened them, one of my shoes was missing. This was some creepy kid's idea of a joke.

When I got home I told my wife what happened and that was the end of it. A few days later she hands me your column. It was about the guy who let himself into his girlfriend's house with the back-door key and recognized an old buddy's voice in the back bedroom. He spied the guy's shoes in the living room and decided on the spur of the moment to take one of the shoes and leave quietly. ON his way home he pitched it into Lake Calhoun. He closed his letter by saying, "When the guy's wife reads this she'll know why her husband came home with one shoe the other night."

My wife said, "I wondered about your crazy story of the kids on the bus swiping your show. It didn't make sense, but this does."

I told her that Lake Calhoun is in Minneapolis (we live in New Orleans). She says you changed Ponchartrain to Calhoun to save my neck and it's been very chilly around our house for quite some time. Drop dead. --- Froze Out.

Dear Froze: I give you my solemn word that the letter was from Minneapolis and the guy DID say Lake Calhoun. I hope this thaws things out at your house.

Dear Ann Landers: Twice in the past six months you've asked women who married "mama's boys" why they failed to recognize the "signs" BEFORE marriage. I'd like to answer.

My own family was reasonably well-balanced. We loved and respected one another but we were independent. I had had no experience with "closely knit" families. I didn't know what "signs" to look for. I'm sure now that had I known, I still would have been fooled because that screwy trio kept all symptoms of their sick behavior carefully concealed.

When I was 20, I married a man 24 who had all the external trappings of a mature adult. In the six months we dated he rarely mentioned his parents. Shortly after the wedding I discovered what I was in for. When we had dinner at their home, his mother filled his plate, held his chair, stroked his hair, cooed in his ear and they held hands at the table. His dad witnessed it all with silent approval. After dinner they excluded me from the conversation completely. I might as well have been in Australia. This went on for four years. Thank God we had no children. When I left him no one could understand why.

I am now married to a wonderful man and we have a beautiful family. If I had stayed with my first husband I would not have had any children becaue he spent almost every night at his parent's home. Crazy? You'd better believe it. ---Sanity It's Beautiful

Dear San: Thank you for answering the question. It figures.

Armed Policewomen Prove Capability

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) -- The long arm of the law in Ann Arbor may be feminine, carry a gun and be capable of delivering a judo chop to a wrong- doer.

That is the result of a police program under which uniformed, armed women police officers walk street patrols or ride in police cruisers.

"So far as I know, there are only two or three places in the United States -- including Oakland, Calif. -- which make similar use of policewomen," said Police Chief Walter Krasny.

Krasny noted that many police departments assign women as parking meter maids or in the policewomen's division, but he added, "I think our program of using the women in actual police work, along with men, is unusual and it has paid dividends in cutting down on crime."

Krasny said the three policewomen on Ann Arbor's force completed the regular 256- hour basic training course required of all officers and got an additional training in police procedures.

"The women are equi]]ed with small hand guns like our detectives carry and they wear them in a regular pistol holster," Krasny said. "A couple of the girls also took lessons in judo before they started their regular assignments."

The city's 100 patrolmen have accepted the idea of patrolwomen working in the precincts with them and answeri calls, he said.

"We don't shield the patrolwomen from anything but we do try to minimize the chances of them being put in danger as the first unit at a bank holdup alarm or something like that -- instead, they are more apt to draw assignment as a backup unit.

"We have found that the patrolwomen are espceiclly useful in cases dealing with young people and with cutting down on shoplifting and petty thefts."

Heredity Plays Role In Breast Cancer

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla. (AP) -- The danger that breast cancer may run in families is greater--in some cases by nine times--than has been generally supposed, a sicentist said today.

It has been postulated that female relatives of mothers, sisters or aunts who had breast cancer face a two to threefold higher risk of getting such cancers than do unrelated women, said Dr. David E. Anderson of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex.

But, a new on-going analysis of families is finding that the risk can be far higher and even nine times greater for some women, Anderson told an American Cancer Socity seminar for science writers.

The defense is for high-risk women to have frequent checkups using all available techniques to spot breast cancers early when they might be easily curable, the researcher said.

And such a more intensive screening program might well turn up clues as why different types of breast cancers develop and how to prevent them, he said.

The revision in estimating the risk for relatives is based partly upon evidence about differences between breast cancers that occur before or after a woman's menopause, said Anderson, a geneticist and professor of biology at the University of Texas.

The risk for relatives is about three times higher than average if a woman had a breast cancer before menopause, Anderson said.

The risk for relatives is less than two times higher than average if a woman developed breast cancer after menopause.

If a woman's cancer develops in both breasts after menopause, the risk to relatives is 5.4 times higher. If this happens before menopause, then the risk is nine times higher.

The genetic or hereditary factors seem to play a much more important role if women relatives had breast cancers in both breasts before menopause rather than in only one breast, he said.

Over-all, women are generally considered to have a 5 to 7 per cent chance of developing breast cancer during their lifetime, he said.

But, for some women, he said, the chances could reach a 45 per cent chance if they are related to women developing cancer in both breasts before menopause.

Girl Nominated As Page In House

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A 17year-old Montana girl has been nominated to be the first of her sex to serve as a page in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Dick Shoup, R-Mont., has semt the name of Kathi Dayton of Stevensville to House Republican Leader Gerald ,Ford of Michigan for appointment as a page.

Shoup urged that Kathi be judged "strictly upon her personal qualifications and not by her sex."

"Considering that Congress has passed the Equal Rights Amendment," he said, "It's about time the House of Representatives strikes down a few sexual barriers of its own," Shoup wrote. The proposed constitutional amendment is being ratified by the states.

Kathi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dayton, was a page in the Montana legislature last year.

The Senate has four girl pages.

What's The Law

Wife Goes Topless But Can Collect

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Carol had a number of drinks at a beach party, but still managed to put a pretty good front. Particularly, when she appeared amongst her friends in a topless bathing suit.

While her husband gasped audibly, the repercussions of the incident occurred several months later. Her husband suddenly packed his bags and left Carol gasping this time. And, when he didn't come back, Carol started suit against him for maintenance and support.

"When a woman wears a topless bathing suit in public," was the defense "her husband has every right to leave her. And, in doing so, he shouldn't be required to pay her a penny for her support."

"But, I didn't do it intentionally," was Carol's answer. "I got all mixed up by the mixed drinks. Between the hot sun and the cool drinks, I didn't know what side was up."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you direct the payment of support for the immodest Carol?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Carol's immodest conduct on a single occasion would have justified her husband's efforts to conceal the exposed portions of her body, but did not justifying his leaving her. And, even if it did, concluded the judge, by continuing to live with Carol for several months after the incident amounted to his condoning her conduct. (Based upon a 1964 Illinois Court of Appeals Decision)

SEEKS MORE FROSH

URBANA, Ill. (AP) -- The University of Illinois will increase its quota for freshmen students in September 1972 and lower its admission requirements for some curricula.

Charles E. Warwick, director of admissions and records, said the new admissions requirements vary from college to college and are based on projections of how well the applicant may do as a U. of I. student.

Under the new standard, applicants will be admitted if their rank and test scores predict a 3.7 grade average.

Warwick said the quota for incoming freshmen was increased from 5,200 to 5,800 because the number of undergraduate students who returned to U. of I. in September 1971 was considerably below the anticipated total compared with previous enrollment trends.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Any chance that the baseball season could open as scheduled Wednesday seemed gone today as more charges and accusations flew back and forth between striking players and club owners following the owners' rejection of a proposed settlement by the players' association.

Meanwhile, the heads of the 24 major league teams scheduled a stretegy session in Chicago tonight. But even if the pension dispute were settled, it was unlikely that Wednesday's traditional Cincinnati opener between the Reds and Houston Astros could be played.

Sixteen other teams are slated to open Thursday, the rest on Friday.

"I doubt that we ll make any new proposals," said Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins. "We're staying with our original offer."

The owners rejected Monday night a proposal by the Major League Baseball Players Association, whose members have been on strike since Saturday, to fund the proposed 17 per cent increase in retirement benefits mostly from increased interest which the pension plan is earning.

The plan is designed to earn 4½ per cent annually from its investments but in recent years the rate has gone up to 9-9½ per cent, figuring out to an over-all average of 6 per cent.

Marvin Miller, head of the players' group, said the difference between 4½ and 6 per cent is $660,000 a year.

However, both the players' association and the club owners must agree to its allocation and Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said transfer of the funds "would jeopardize the entire pension plan."

O'Connell said two owners- Griffith and August A. Busch Jr. of the St. Louis Cardinals- indicated the players' latest proposal would take money away from players already retired.

Miller called those charges "outrageous."

The owners have offered $400,000 for the health care segment of the pension package, plus $90,000 to pay for the increased coverage cost for retired players, who must buy the coverage themselves. This would bring the owners' total annual contribution to the overall plan to $5.94 million.

Miller said an independent actuary hired by the pension committee, which consists of two owners and two players, reported that an annual $5.94 million contribution together with the plan's earnings would provide "ample money" for both the health care increase and the 17 per cent in etirement benefits.

Miller said that since most of the assets of the pension plan are in long-term mortgages at the 9-9½ per cent rate, even if that rate went down- say to 8½ per cent- the average rate would continue to rise as long as the yearly rate stayed above 6 per cent.

"We are not asking for any more money than the owners offered in our final meeting at Phoenix March 29," Miller said Monday in making the new proposal.

"We have said all along that money is not the issue. We are accepting the owners' money offer ($5.94 million) and, in addition, offering to guarantee the difference between the 4½ per cent interest the plan is designed to earn and the 6 per cent it is earning.

"It's the same amount of money, but the difference is how we apply the money."

New Record Pike

HUNTSVILLE -- Anything can happen on Leap Year Day which only comes once every four years. If you don't believe it, ask Morris Palmer of Huntsville.

Palmer was fishing for crappie with his friend Harley Grapes in the warm water arm of Thomas Hill Reservoir on Feb. 29. He was using a little bitty hook and a little bitty minnow.

And he caught a great big northern pike -- a state record 13 pound, 10 ounce pike which broke the old mark of 10 pounds, four ounces, set just last November by Ron Kaestner of St. Louis. Palmer's fish was 36½ inches long.

"He hit it hard," Palmer says. "I didn't know what was going on. But he only made one run where I couldn't hold him at all and then he came right on in."

Palmer had no dip net nor gaff, and as the fish lay in the water beside the boat it opened its mouth and the little hook was on the verge of falling out.

"I ran my fingers through his gill and the other hand under his body," Palmer says. "And then just kind of scooped him in the boat." The fish was authenticated by Roland Foster, creel census clerk at the lake. It was weighed on store scales at nearby Kaseyville.

Both authentication by a Department of Conservation employee and accurate weighing are requisites before any fish will be certified a state record.

There is a report of an angler catching a northern of more than 14 pounds, but it was dressed before being authenticated. State record holders receive an engraved plaque from the Department of Conservation.

Campanella Still Serious

VALHALLA N.Y. (AP) — Roy Campanella, baseball Hall of Famer in serious condition at Grasslands Hospital, has not been told of the death of Gil Hodges, manager of the New York Mets and an old teammate of Campanela on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dr. W.R. Dalziel said Campanella spent a restful Sunday in the hospital's intensive care unit. "I heard about Hodges' death" Dr. Dalziel said, "but have no intention of telling Campanella."

Campanella, 50, has been in the hospital since last Thursday with an embolism on the lung.

Weather Halts Sports Action

Inclement weather played havoc with Sikeston's sports schedule Tuesday afternoon. Rain forced the cancellation of a golf meet and shortened a baseball game against Kelly High School.

In baseball the Bulldog's second game of the season was cut short after four innings with Sikeston leading 2-0 over the Kelly Hawks. Plans for rescheduling the game are indefinite.

The golf meet against Dexter has been reset.

Cardinals Eliminate Maloney Shamsky

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals reduced their roster to 24 players Monday, one under the limit, by cutting righthanders Jim Maloney and Stan Williams and outfielderpinchhitter Art Shamsky.

They were given unconditional releases. The club said it had no immediate plans to add another player.

Meanwhile, in St. Petersburg, Fla., Joe Torre and pitchers Jerry Reuss, Moe Drabowsky, Joe Grzenda and Reggie Cleveland worked out on their own at a bayside park, their training camp closed because of the strike by the Major League Players Association.

A meeting was set for tonight in Chicago for club owners to decide their next move in the dispute over the players demands for more money in the pension fund. The strike seemed certain to prevent the first games of the season from being played Wednesday.

August A. Busch, Cards owner, voiced his disapproval Monday night of a proposal made by the players association to add pension fund interest money to the fund itself. The owners rejected the proposal.

ODDS AND ENDS

The Missouri State High School Activities Association Board of Control set the dates for the 1973 girls regional and state basketball tournaments at its December meeting. The regionals will be played during the week of February 26 - March 3 and the state will be played the week of March 5-10.

A need for additional baseball umpires in Southeast Missouri was noted early this week by district high school coaches. The schools are required to use umps registered with the Missouri State High School Activities Association.

Anyone interested in obtaining registration with the MSHSAA in any sport can write to Jack Miles, Assistant Executive Secretary; 1808 Business Loop 70 West; P.O. Box 1328, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

Registered officials in all sports is becoming a problem in Southeast Missouri.

The 1972 state high school baseball tournament will be held at Heinie Meine park in Lemay May 26-27. The tournament has been conducted at Springfield three years.

Lafayette, a regional winner over Sikeston the last two seasons, is the defending champs. They also won the title in 1970.

Sub-district tournaments will be held at Leawood, Cape Girardeau Central, Oran, Hayti and Broseley, Festus, Chaffee and Lilbourn will host district playoff matches. Festus and Sikeston will hold sectional playoffs and Cape Girardeau the regional battle before the tournament moves to Lemay for the semi-finals and finals. Sub-district tournament play begins April 24.

The MSHSAA state track meet for Class M and S teams will be held in Columbia May 13. The class L outdoor meet is set for May 20.

State tournament play in tennis is scheduled May 19-20 and in golf May 22 with the state baseball tournament (May 26-27) bringing a close to the 1971-72 MSHSAA calendar.

All over Missouri, retarded persons are training to participate in the Fourth Missouri Special Olympics. This event, designed as an incentive to promote physical fitness among the retarded, is scheduled for June 2-3 at Missouri Valley College, Marshall.

Issam B. Amary, state director, has estimated that approximately 3,800 retarded children in this state are preparing for community-level special olympics programs. More than 800 -- most of them winners in community events -- will compete in the traditional track and field events at the state games in June.

Sikeston will host a community event April 15.

The Daily Standard will again bring you special reports on Southeast Missouri baseball stars in the minor league baseball program. A national organization will send us weekly reports on the progress of Gideon's Mark Littell, Greg Buys of Kennett and Sikeston's Gary Owens.

Mr. Fritz, one of the smallest managers of professional wrestling, will be at the American Legion Building Wednesday with his rugged grapplers....Jack Dalton and T.N.T. Dalton.

Springfield Firm Bids On Pros Team

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Fifteen different groups have shown interest in buying the Memphis Pros of the American Basketball Association, including a Springfield, Mo., management firm, the team's spresident said Monday.

Pros President Avron Fogelman said he is actively seeking a buyer for the team, which finished last in the ABA's Western Division this season.

Fogelman said he has been in contact with 15 parties interested in the possibility of buying the club.

A new owner is being sought to increase revenue for the team, which has exhausted the $700,000 it raised by sale of stock to the public last year.

If a new owner is not found by April 10, Fogeman said, a loan of $400,000 will be sought to help the club continue operations temporarily.

"I've discovered that sports franchises cannot be bought and sold overnight, so while we are continuing to exert every effort to sell the club, we have voted on other measures to raise the necessary capital to keep us in operation," he said.

The loan reportedly has been offered by another ABA team, but would depend on approval of that team's board of directors. If the loan is not obtained, Fogeman said, an effort might be made to sell an additional $300,000 in stock.

Of those interested in buying the team, at least one would want to remove it from Memphis, Fogelman said.

"Although we don't want the team to leave Memphis, we must legally accept offers in that direction and then let the stockholders decide," he said.

He said he is looking for an investor with about $600,000 to obtain 51 per cent of the team, or someone to pay off all the stockholders and take complete control.

Among others reportedly showing an interest in the team are a California-based entertainment firm, a Cincinnati man, a Tampa group, a large Memphis corporation, and two groups of New York investors.

Rupp Trophy Honors UCLA Sophomore Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Bill Walton of UCLA will be the first recipient of the Adolph Rupp Trophy for basketball.

Walton was chosen Monday in balloting by sportscasters and writers in all 50 states. He received more than four times the number of votes received by second-place Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana.

The award will be presented at a banquet Wednesday in Lexington.

Walton will not be present to recive the trophy, nor will UCLA coach Johnny Wooden. Wooden said he and Walton had prior commitments.

He added, "I feel it is an outstanding honor to win this award, a new award in honor of one of the great figures in college basketball."

Woden said assistant coach Gary Cunningham would attend the banquet to represent UCLA.

Coach Rupp, who has been retired as UK coach at the mandatory age of 70, said Walton is the "finest young athlete the nation produced this year."

Rupp told the members of the recently-formed Commonwealth Athletic Club, sponsors of the trophy, "Your selection this year was absolutely fool-proof.

"I've never in all my years of college basketball seen a boy play the way he does, do the things he's done," Rupp said.

Walton led UCLA to its eighth NCAA championship last month, defeating Rupp's Wildcats.

Owners Offer Stands

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota Twins President Calvin Griffith, in Chicago today for a meeting of owners or representatives from the 24 major league baseball clubs, says the owners will reaffirm their rejection of a Major League Baseball Players Association proposal.

"All of the owners will reconfirm what our Players Relations Comittee has already decided," he said prior to going to Chicago. "I doubt that we will make any new proposals. We're standing with our orginal offer—to continue the present benefits at a cost of $400,000."

Griffith said Monday that the decision to turn down the proposal to put the $490,000 offer orginally made by the owners for health benefit improvements into the pension plan was made after a conference call among members of the Players Relations Committee.

"We went over it and our actuaries advised us not to accept it," he said. "It wasn't in the best interest of baseball overall."

Griffith maintained the money would have to come from money set aside for pension reserve, primarily for players already retired.

"The committee does not want to take money away from the players who have already retired," the Twins president said. "Those boys are entitled to as much as the ones playing now."

Griffith said the entire package would amount to $1,021,000.

"We have a problem ahead," he said. "We're not going to restructure this pension plan overnight."

Stamps In The News

Leonardo da Vinci's famed drawing, "Proportions of Man", is the main design for a new commemorative stamp by the United Nations in honor of World Health Day April 7. The same design appears on both the 15 cent and the 80 francs (Switzerland denomination) adhesives.

The World Health Organization, an arm of the U.N. sponsoring World Health Day, is using postage stamps to help publicize its efforts. At present, WHO is conducting and coordinating research on the causes, development and prevention of heart diseases.

The original drawing by da Vinci hangs in the Academy of Fine Arts in Venice. The designer of the new stamp is George Hamori of Australia.

Collectors may obtain first day covers by sending remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, plus a service charge of five cents, in either money order or certified check. Do not send cash. The outside envelope must be clearly marked "FDC — WHD — 15c." Send to United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, PO Box 5900 Grand Central Station, N.Y. 10017, prior to April 7.

Recently we reported about two new issues from Israel honoring Passover and the plight of Soviet Jewry. A further announcement by the Israel Philatelic Agency reveals that a third set of stamps was issued on that same date. The new set consisted of five stamps.

The five new Israeli stamps are a tribute to five artists who specialized in Jewish themes. The works and artists are: "The Scribe," by Boris Schatz; "Sarah," by Abel Pann; "Zefat," by Menahem Shemi; "Old Jerusalem," by Jacob Steinhardt; and "Resurrection," by Aaron Kahana.

All the stamps mentioned are available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

The importance of water is stressed by Surinam in a new set of its stamps. Featured is a drop of water and a running tap to mark the 40th anniversary of that South American country's waterworks. Until Surinam's waterworks were constructed in 1932, the people depended on wells for water and had to boil it for drinking and cooking.

An old man sat in his rocking chair and he thought of many things that had happened during his years and some of his thoughts brought him joy and some brought him tears, as his thoughts raced back over all the years he had lived.

And then he thought of when he was a boy playing with his Christmas toys that santa had brought him for being a good little boy.

Then he said to himself how on thoughted children can be for oft times they have set on santas knees.

But anyway the toys made me as happy as any child could be, then he thought of his own children that had also sat upon his knees and he was as happy as any father could be.

Then he thought of his parents that had gone on before and he would never in this life see them any more. Then he thought of his brothers and sisters that lived far away and he hoped he would see them again some day. Then he thought of his wife that he loved so dear and he knew that he would meet her in heaven above.

Then his thoughts traveled back over his Journey through life, he thought of his children and he thought of his wife and he thought of their happiness when they were at home, but now -- he was left all alone.

Then he said to himself, my Journey through life seems to be in the past, for nothing in this would can last --

Sam, who had drifted away after years of marriage into the arms of his secretary, played by Peggy Matthews.

Act III involved the anguish of a mother and father when they learn that at the last moment before her wedding their daughter; Mimsey, has locked herself in the bathroom and refuses to come out.

After much soul-searching and reflection they are unable to figure out why. Finally, Mimsey tells them. She is afraid her marriage will be like theirs, a loveless battle ground.

At this point the bridegroom enters. He is the only person who can stop Mimsey's foolishness, which he does. "Mimsey," he commands, "Cool it."

At that point, she unlocked the bathroom door, and with the problem forgotten, the wedding proceeds.

Hope Terrell and Jim Wenneker, gave perhaps the best performances of the evening as the embattled parents. Mimsey was played by Peggy Matthews. The bridegroom was played by David Boyer.

Driver Given 30 Days

A 22-year-old Bloomfield man was ordered in magistrate court committed to the Scott County jail Tuesday by Judge John Sides for 30 days after pleading guilty to a charge of driving without a license.

Judge Sides asked Billy Ray Baker if he had ever had a license and Baker said he hadn't. The judge then handed down the sentence noting:

"This will give you 30 days to read your rules book and get ready to pass the test upon your discharge."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Wilson represented the state in 16 cases before judge Sides.

Check charges dominated the docket with four appearing in court charged with offenses from forgery to insufficent funds.

Roger Healey, a former Sikeston resident now of Mississippi, waived a formal hearing and pleaded guilty to issuing bad checks of more than $400. Judge Sides handed down a $100 fine, one-year jail sentence and two-year probation on recommendation of Scott County Prosecutor Tom Gilmore. The jail sentence was stayed on condition of restitution of the checks.

John Lett Jr., Sikeston, has his preliminary hearing set for May 1 on a charge of forgery. Clarence Cecil had bond set at $1,000 on a similar charge.

Two Potosi youths, Daniel Row Wilson and Billy Joe Wilson, had their preliminary hearings set for April 11 on a charge of passing a no funds check at P. N. Hirsch Co.

Writing a $25 insufficient funds check to Liberty Super Market brought a six-month jail term and one-year probation to Argel Kellett of 242 Daniel. The jail term would be suspended upon payment of court costs and restitution of check.

Nora Woodson, route four Sikeston, appeared on a charge of no operators license and was levied a $5 fine and costs after showing the court that she had passed the test for her license.

A $5 fine was levied against Leroy Bonds of Bell City on a charge of defective brakes.

Clifford Love Dugan, Charleston, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 65-mile zone and was fined $20 and court costs.

John Stucker, rural Matthews, had his case continued at request of his attorney. He was charged with driving without an operators license.

A non-support charge against Louis Jimmerson, 105 Westgate, was denied him. Trial was set for May 9.

Lawrence Boley, Bell City, was fined $10 and costs on a careless and imprudent driving charge.

Maynard Lee Sisler, Kennett, charged with driving while intoxicated and showing 18 per cent on the breathalizer, had his case continued until April 11.

Factory To Close Again

The Anchor Toy factory will close in the next 60 to 90 days it was announced yesterday by Cliff Weitzen, an executive of Miner Industries.

Miner Industries has been managing the operation of the Transogram Company under the supervision of federal courts for nine months.

Transogram filed in 1970 under chapter II of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. At that time plant officials said the bankruptcy was due to an uncertain future of the financial conditions of the company.

The plant closed its doors March 26, 1971, but reopened them two months later for a small crew in limited production.

BERNIE — The city council met for a regular session Monday night and will begin advertising for bids for a new 750 gallon-per-minute fire truck and chassis.

Deadline for all bids will be 6 p.m. April 25.

Financing of the purchase of the truck at an estimated cost of $20,000 was approved.

The board approved an increase of a tax on water and gas usage of 75 cents per month for each residential gas and water user and higher rates for commercial users.

An ordinance was approved by the board requiring payment of personal property taxes before next year's city car licenses could be purchased.

The board passed an ordinance prohibiting discarding of junk or dismantled cars on streets, alleys or sidewalks.

The city clerk reported the city had received $3,488 in franchise tax from Missouri Utilities during the past six months.

Franchise Fee Set For Company

NEW MADRID — The city council Monday night passed a new ordinance setting a franchise fee of two per cent of the total gross receipts, payable monthly, for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The city has been receiving $900 annually from the telephone company.

City Attorney Hal E. Hunter, Jr., advised the board a damage suit has been filed against the city for personal injuries by Mrs. Jeannie K. Pressley and her husband, Wayne Pressley.

The Pressley's are seeking $40,000 for damages they charge resulted when a tree fell across their car Nov. 6, 1971, at the intersection of Pinnell and Main streets.

Council authorized payment of misplaced bond coupons upon presentation of an executed indemnity bond and affidavits to Franklin National Bank.

City Administrator Russell Ellis was instructed to arrange a meeting with William A. Ford, consultant engineer, for a review of a preliminary feasibility study for purchase of the natural gas system in the city from Ark-Mo Power Company.

Power plant construction payments of $517,911.67 for the period ending April 3 were approved. Construction payroll of $203,728.79 for the week ending Mar. 24, and $205,272.70 for the week ending Mar. 31 were also approved.

Announcement was made a veterinarian will be at the city hall April 12- 13 from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. for the annual anti- rabies dog vaccination clinic. Dogs are required to be vaccinated before a city license is issued.

Leash Law Coming Up In Sikeston

City Council members said yesterday that there are too many dogs and cats running loose in Sikeston and that something must be done to curb them.

When the council resumes its meeting Wednesday it will enact a leash law. The law will require the animals to be on leashes unless they are confined to the owner's property.

Violation of the law could result in a fine of $100.

The council met briefly yesterday and adjourned until Wednesday when it will accept the results of today's election and may elect a new mayor.

This week's meeting was the last for City Manager Raymert Miller, Mayor Lee Shell and Councilman Kenneth Bridger.

Shell presented a plaque to Miller on behalf of the city commending Miller for his service to Sikeston.

"I hope the citizens of Sikeston realize how fortunate the city has been in having a man like Miller, as its city manager," Shell said.

The council ordered the destruction of a building owned by Mrs. Nancy House, 226 Petty St., Mrs. House, who is 80, requested the city suspend its condemnation notice. Council members expressed sympathy with Mrs. House who uses the house to suppliment her income. But they added they could not allow loopholes to develop in the city's drive to remove delapidated buildings.

The council opened bids on six new police cars. Goza-Harper submitted the lowest bid of $13,494 over trade in value of the present cars. Jarvis Motor Company bid $14,194 and Sikeston Motor Company bid $14,290. Miller will make the final decision on which cars to purchase after reviewing each of the offers.

The council authorized the leasing of ground formerly occupied by Ceramics Products Co. to Cotton Holifield of the Sikeston Airport. He will build two hangers on the space.

The rent is $1 a year for 10 years, "payable in advance."

WHAT IS HE LEARNING?

The average American pre-schooler spends 64 per cent of his time watching television. By the age of 14, this child will have seen 18,000 murders on TV. By the age of 17, some 350,000 commercials. In the course of his life the TV will have consumed 10 years of his time. These facts were compiled by Dr. Gerald Looney of the University of Arizona.

In his remarks to the American Academy of Pediatrics, Dr. Looney declared that television, "the electronic intruder," has replaced both parent and teacher as the primary educator of children. Just in terms of time alone, Dr. Looney points out, the American pre-school child during his critical pre-school years spends more time watching TV than he would in the classrooms during four years of college. And what is he learning?

FOOD PRICE WAR

Back in the fall of 1966 housewives in a score of cities started boycotting supermarkets in a protest against runaway food prices. On Oct. 17 of that year some 10,000 housewives picketed five Denver supermarket chains, chanting "down with frills, stamps and gimmicks." Food prices did go down sharply soon thereafter, whatever the reason.

This year food prices are again rising sharply. The consumer price index for foods rose 1.9 per cent in February, which works out to a staggering annual rate of 22.8 per cent. Beef cattle prices have reached their highest point in 20 years. Consumers are up in arms, as usual, but the difference from five years ago is that this time some supermarkets are leading the protest.

Full-page advertisements in Washington newspapers on March 21 and 22 told consumers to "buy something else" until prices come down. The ads were placed by the 94-store Giant Food chain over the signature of its consumer adviser, Mrs. Esther Peterson. She is a former White House consumer adviser and Assistant Secretary of Labor in the Johnson administration. Mrs. Peterson's buy-less-meat campaign stresses that one reason for the high meat prices is that livestock prices are not controlled under President Nixon's economic program. (All raw farm products are exempt from controls.)

The food inflation problem is creating division within the Nixon administration. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz claims agriculture "is highly competitive, sometimes harshly so, and is therefore not in need of controls." He blames consumers for bidding up food prices. But C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission, assailed the Butz position on March 17 and declared that farmers must make the same sacrifices as other Americans to hold down prices. The administration has "no present intentions" of clamping controls on farm goods. Meanwhile, the Price Commission will hold hearings on food prices on Wednesday, April 12, in Washington in an attempt to clear the air.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE CASHLESS SOCIETY?

One of the more intriguing predictions by financial "futurists" a while back had to do with a subject of universal interest- money. As they saw it, currency would soon go out of style. Cash would play an ever smaller role in financing economic activity. A "cashless society," they predicted with much certitude, was just around the corner.

In such a society, people might keep a little folding money and a few coins for small transactions. But for the most part, people would pay for things by bookkeeping entries -- via checkbook or the credit card.

Today, a dozen years after such predictions of currency-less society, the money millennium has yet to arrive. Indeed, the United States has become, if anything, a more-cash-than-ever society.

According to the Morgan Guaranty Survey, the amount of paper money and coin in circulation (which excludes amounts held by the U. S. Treasury and Federal Reserve Banks) has risen sharply over the past decade and, at nearly $61 billion, stands at a new high.

Individuals hold the great bulk of this cash. Currency holdings by businesses -- mostly as "till" money -- account for only about 20 per cent of total cash outstanding. Contrary to the famous Willie Sutton quotation, banks aren't where the money is either. Their working cash balances range between $7 and 8 billion.

In per-capita terms, currency outstanding amounts to $292 for each man, woman, and child in the nation -- compared with only $182 per capita in 1960. And in comparison with earlier periods in the U. S., today's holdings of currency -- despite the checkbook and credit card – are much higher. In the period from 1892 to 1917, per-capital currency holdings fluctuated within a range of $14 to $22. Between 1918 and 1939 the range was only $27 to $46. Even after allowing for today's larger population and for inflation so-called real per-capita holdings of cash now are more than 50 per cent higher than they were in 1939.

Puzzling, too, is the pattern that has developed in the rise in currency by denomination. It is the big bills -- $50 and $100 -- that have shown the steepest rate of increase. For instance, more than $13 billion in $100 bills is now outstanding, more than double the amount in 1960.

Actually, there are some clues to help solve the great cash mystery -- in part, at least.

Behind this rise in coin output, in part, in operation of one of the oldest principles in economics: Gresham's Law -- "bad" money drives out "good." A rising price for silver made the old coins (90 per cent silver, 10 per cent copper versus today's 75 per cent copper, 25 per cent nickel face, bonded to a copper one) worth more. Silver coins rapidly disappeared into private hoards. Collectors are contributing in other ways to the rising demand for coins.

The proliferation of local sales taxes, at even higher rates, has increased the need for coins. Another major coin user is the vending machine industry.

Tax evasion is believed to be significant in the demand for currency. Gamblers and racketeers to white-collar professionals and blue-collar "moonlighters" receive payment in cash so that there is no record. Much of this moneywinds up -- unreported for taxes -- in safe deposit boxes, under the mattresses or in fruit jars.

There is nothing new in such cash hoarding. But with inflation nudging more people's money incomes into higher tax brackets, the temptation to hold reported income as low as possible may be increasing.

What seems abundantly clear is that cash money is not about to go out of style. If the experts are holding their breath for a cashless society, they'll be breathless long before they are cashless.

PRETTY FACE SYNDROME

Discrimination against unattractive women, declared Washington Post columnist William Raspberry recently, is the most pervasive form of employment discrimination. If their features were more attractive, the "real dogs" would be working in more visible positions or in more responsible jobs, Raspberry wrote. This is a kind of discrimination rarely admitted to by employers. No personnel director will tell a woman, "Sorry, lady, but you need a nose job and your lips don't match." And the victim isn't likely to turn the insult into a public issue.

Attractiveness may indeed be a measure of employability -- or of education, social acceptance and future well-being, according to an article in Psychology Today (March 1972). Physical appearance stereotypes are absorbed as early as nursery-school age. In the authors' experiments, attractive children were assumed by their classmates and teachers to be more pleasant, better behaved and more intelligent than the unattractive ones. This physical -beauty stereotype becomes a lifelong liability or asset in conventional society.

The plain little girl who was rejected in nursery school is more likely to be unnoticed in high school, rejected for the receptionists's job and passed over for dates. "Usually we get around to taking a second look," said the article. "... However, many of our interactions with other persons are once-only or infrequent. We have limited exposure to job applicants, defendants in jury trials and political candidates, yet on the basis of initial impressions we make decisions that affect their lives." Hardly anyone expects fulfillment of the Women's Lib demand that there be less preoccupation with beauty. But for those unhappily confined within their skins, to suffer the snap judgment of "just another ugly face" is certainly a cruel and phychologically damaging experience.

LAND USE

Farmers aren't the only ones who benefit from the use of pesticides. Any of us who enjoy a day outdoors benefit, too. Without pesticides and agricultural technology, much of the land now available for wildlife and recreation would have to be cultivated. In addition to the 320 million acres of crops now harvested, it is estimated that over 300 million acres — equal to the area of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama — would be needed to feed the U. S. population.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reminded drivers to yield the right- of- way to emergency vehicles.

"Drivers must yield the right- of -way to emergency vehicles approaching from either direction," Hockaday stated. "They must move as far to the right as possible and stop when an approaching emergency vehicle has its siren on or exhibits a red or authorized flashing blue light."

Missouri law states in part that upon the immediate approach of an emergency vehicle giving audible signal by siren or while having at least one lighted lamp exhibiting red light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of 500 feet to the front of such vehicle or an authorized flashing blue light, the driver of every other vehicle shall yield the right-of -way and shall immediately drive to a position parallel to, and as far as possible to the right of the traveled portion of the highway and thereupon stop and remain in such position until such emergency vehicle has passed, except when otherwise directed by a police or traffic officer.

The Patrol Superintendent then noted that it is often difficult for drivers to hear an emergency vehicle's siren when the windows are rolled up and the air conditioner or heater unit and the radio are in operation. For this reason, he urged drivers to always look and listen for approaching emergency vehicles and be prepared to take appropriate action.

"Emergency vehicles are used to carry personnel to a particular destination where some tragedy and loss has or may soon occur," Hockaday continued. "It is very disturbing to hear that another tragedy and loss has happened as a result of a collision between an emergency vehicle and another vehicle. Drivers must condition themselves to be alert for emergency vehicles and to yield the right of way to them."

A DANGEROUS QUESTION

A consumer "activist and leader" in the consumer protests against rising prices of a few years ago has again taken to the stump protesting current prices in supermarkets with the comment,"...Why doesn't the government come out and say 'cut it out'?"

It is interesting to contemplate just what is involved in this remark. When the government assumes the power of telling merchants to "cut it out", the free market is dead, and no thinking consumer would wish this. It is the free market that brings the fascinating style changes in clothes, the innovations and conveniences found in the nation's stores and a general price level that in spite of inflation leaves consumers with the highest standard of living the world has ever known. Competition to meet ever-changing tastes of consumers in the marketplace means progress.

Even promotion and advertising are subject to the changing demands of consumers. A recent AP news feature describes how the catalogs of major trading stamp concerns endeavor to keep in tune with the trend. Trading stamp companies, like retail merchants, must satisfy consumers at redemption centers if they wish to stay in business. Of the 1,900 items in the catalog of one major stamp company, 600 are offered for the first time. Stay-press, soil-resistant tablecloths and no-iron sheets and pillowcases are popular, as are improved grooming aids for young working housewives who have neither the time nor the spare funds for a beautician.

These apparently are the things that consumer protectors would like to see eliminated when they speak of government telling the merchant to "Cut it out." If such a day ever comes, we are headed for the same kind of drab, unchaning existence prevalent in the iron curtain countries in Europe.

THE PATRIOT

A good word should be said for the honorable word, patriot, and all those who justly and proudly bear that name. For a time it seemed that the leftist opinion molders have succeeded incompletely defaming that good word and anyone who loved Truth and Freedom and Republic USA.

Now the tide is shifting. Apathy has borne its bitter fruits and the vast majority of the good working people who earn most of the income, pay most of the taxes and keep this civilization going are seeing their children bused across town, their taxes rising to pay for foreign "aid" to prop up socialist governments which despise us and to encourage shoddy thinking about work and technology in our schools and colleges.

The public is catching on that those who defame patriotism praise bloody dictators and murderers as their heros. They wave enemy flags and apologize for every bloody deed of our Republic's enemies, while they attack every act of self-defense by individuals and nations opposing crime, communism and death.

The enemies of Truth and Freedom slander all of us with charges that we are blind to our national faults. Not true; we know there are many faults because human beings are not perfect. But we know that the bloody dictatorships of our enemies cannot even feed their people under Marxist economics. What patriots cannot understand is how a few of our own citizens never find fault with these bloody dictators in any confrontation with our own country. Patriots say, "My country, may she always be right!" The defamers of patriotism say, "My country is always wrong; her enemies are always right." It is not difficult to choose sides on that issue. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Construction Wages Booming: John Connally, In Closed Session, Gets Set For Showdown with labor in new pay crisis

WASHINGTON — Before secret papers become a drug on the market, it must be reported swiftly there are confidential documents in the dispatch case of a Harvard dean proving there will be a loud and bloody home-front war.

These records are virtually in the personal possession of the morganatically minded, avowedly rude Harvard scion, Prof. John Dunlop, who has invented a new mathmematics.

His artificial arithmetic camouflages the fact that the building and construction trade unions craftsmen are still getting the huge raises they were receiving a year ago when President Nixon, startled by $120 -a-week per-man wage increases, created the first stabilization board. This then is the anniversary of the effort to deflate the inflation with some sort of wage control system.

Dean Dunlop, somewhat a wraith at Harvard, was appointed chairman of that control board called the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC). Since then he has taken orders or directives from no one. Thus, the average construction wage increase is still running from $30 to $40 a week per craftsman. That's about 75 cents to a dollar an hour per man. Only difference is that the contracts have been cut back from three years to one or two years so the total on a 40-hour -week basis doesn't appear to be as much as that which originally inflated the land.

The average increase still is about 11.6 per cent -- or twice as much as that permitted the second class citizenry -- meaning the public.

No one questions Prof. Dunlop's erudition. But the time has come to protest his refusal to make public regularly the wage decisions of his own privy council -- the CISC, which is made up of labor and management delegates.

Otherwise all the jawboning with other union leaders, supermarket operators, and the rank-and -file wage earner will simply result in the upward blast of prices and wages.

In effect, Dean Dunlop has been telling government press officers, high Federal officials and even some White House people to go to hell. He just will not make his new mathematics or his reasoning or his awards or his self-classified documents public, or even deal regularly with the press though he holds the actual key to the anti-inflation fight in his tight hand.

Calls to the committee get answers like, "Well, we may have them in a month." Or, "Well, we really don't know what Mr. Dunlop thinks."

Well, the papers and reports were not really difficult to filch. The wage increase awards are high, though there are four or five unions which agreed to renew at a zero increase rate.

Big problem now is that we're almost in the first hours of the April -May- June quarter when hundreds of clustered major construction contracts expire. And Prof. Dunlop, who really rules the board for too many complex reasons to go into here, appears to keep giving the crafts huge wage increases.

This is the major issue. It's just as vital, perhaps more so, than the Longshoremen's duel. No machinist or auto worker or steel hand, et al., will sit still when he learns that a carpenter or bricklayer has just gotten a $40-a-week increase compared with the regular blue-collar worker's $16 or $20 a week.

Now, it's not generally recognized, but the CISC is just an operational division of the Pay Board. Last week some nine national construction union leaders who are on the AFL-CIO Executive Council voted to support labor's demarche and march from the board. But these same AFL—CIO vice presidents did not walk off the CISC, which is definitely part of this Pay Board.

And as such they will be told to take the Pay Board's edicts "or take their lumps," as one Pay Board member said.

"We're calling in Dunlop and his chaps," said one insider. "And we're going to tell them they're not privileged people. There is a stabilization law. That is policy. The Pay Board is a judicial body. And the construction unions will obey us."

In effect, this is what Pay Board Chairman, Judge Boldt told me recently. Certainly the Pay Board is functioning. On Friday, March 24, they went into session as a seven -- instead of a 15 -- man commission. They revised the regulations. It now takes four men, not eight, to make a decision; and four, not ten, are a quorum, and challenges of decisions can be made by two instead of five members.

So the board's voice will be heard across the land. And it's no gurgle. So will the voice of Treasury Secretary John Connally. The husky, 6-foot Texan is chairman of the all-powerful Cost of Living Council -- and he began sounding off at the session held the day after the labor members quit. Richard Nixon was in that room during thy Cost of Living Council meeting called by the Texan. Connally is ready to take on those labor leaders who want to joust. They can strike. They can tie up billions of dollars on construction. But the government can get tough too. So Prof. Dunlop's hand -- rather, his brief case -- is being called.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- The agenda used by a Senate Banking subcommittee for killing measures, intended to protect housewives from billing a-buses, was prepared and typed in the thick-carpeted suite of the American Bankers Association.

This intrusion of the banking lobby in the committee rooms of the Senate is brazen even by Washington standards. Yet so powerful are the bankers that the gutting of the bill is likely to stick.

The agenda was prepared by James Cash, a former Senate Banking Committee aide who is now the bankers' most deft lobbyist on Capitol Hill.

To make sure the banks were protected instead of the customers, the bankers put the agenda into the hands of one of their best friends in the Senate, capable Bill Brock, R-Tenn., son of a bank director.

Without informing his fellow Senators that the document was the work of the banking lobby, Brock requested it be adopted as the agenda, for a secret meeting of the subcommittee. Unaware of its origins, Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., agreed.

As one bank lobby recommendation after another passed, it was evident to the handful of pro-consumer Senators how thoroughly Brock and Cash had done their work.

In the secrecy of the committee room, for example, Brock and his allies knocked out a provision which would have allowed housewives to refuse to pay for shoddy merchandise. Voting against the housewives were Senators Wallace Bennett, R-Utah; John Tower, R-Tex.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; and Bob Packwood, R-Ore. The deciding vote was the proxy of one-time populist John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the parent Senate Banking Committee.

CONSUMER SABOTAGE

Knowing they were outside the hearing of the irate consumers, the Brock wrecking crew also permitted backdating of financing charges, which cost customers $200 million in 1971. They voted against a provision to block sky-high 60 per cent financing rates, also against a nother clause to prevent billing for undelivered merchandise.

Vainly backing the consumer in the closed session were Senators Proxmire, Harrison Williams, D-N.J.; Tom McIntyre, D-N.H.; and Walter Mondale, D-Minn.

When the tallies were all in, the banks had rammed through, wholly or in part, 15 of their 20 amendments. One weary senator muttered as he left the committee room: "We began with the Fair Credit Billing Act. We wound up with the Bank Protection Act of 1972."

My associate, Les Whitten, visited Cash in his surprisingly modest quarters tucked amid the splendor of the hushed banking lobby suite. At first Cash denied that the agenda was typed in his office.

But Whitten showed him samples we had obtained from his office typewriters which have distinctive characteristics. Confronted with the evidence, Cash acknowledged the work had been done by him and his aides.

Proxmire, meanwhile, was so upset that he has refused to put his name on the report, even though the original bill is his. He has promised a floor fight on the measure.

Footnote: Through a spokesman, Brock told us he was unaware the agenda was prepared by the banking lobby. A spokesman for the American Bankers Association insisted that it was only a "table of comparisons." If Brock used it as a formal agenda, he did it without the bankers' knowledge, said the spokesman.

ITT's EAVESDROPPING

Firms that rent telex circuits from ITT may not know it, but ITT has been sneaking peeks at their cable messages.

ITT memos, which escaped the corporate shredder, show that ITT has been secretly monitoring messages from such institutions as these:

Irving Trust, the First National City Bank of New York, the Bank of Tokyo, Beaunit Mills, Philippine National Bank, Central Gulf Steamship Lines, Koboyashi Metals, Babcock Wilcox, Transmundo, Kersten, Shipping and Long Quinn & Boylan.

One ITT memo titled "Private Wire Monitors" says mournfully: "Since the beginning of this effort, very little feedback has been received regarding its effectiveness."

Another memo on ITT letterhead requests headquarters to "please advise if we are to continue monitoring program."

In Washington, a worried ITT spokesman said the monitoring was only to ensure that telex toll charges were correct. This time, it appears, ITT may be telling the truth.

Our own probe shows that customers had complained that ITT was overcharging them. Apparently, ITT wanted to check for itself. As it turned out, 90 per cent of the customers' gripes were justified.

EAST HAMPTON, Conn. (AP) — I finally got Ed Barton's Christmas card.

Neither rain nor snow nor the waters of Long Island Sound— not even a band of mail thieves could stay this yule greeting.

There was a slight delay, however. It was postmarked Dec. 23, 1970.

Ed writes he's fine. The card isn't.

It looks like it was stomped on, chewed and used as a raft. The ink is smeared, the righthand side is gone and stamped in purple ink above the address are the words: "This piece of mail, stolen while in custody of the Postal Service, is being delivered after recovery from waters of Long Island Sound."

Postal Inspector Robert DeLong related the card's journey:

It began in Ithaca, N.Y., and was uneventful till it reached the New Haven, Conn., post office for delivery to Norwalk, where I lived at the time.

It was loaded aboard a "star route" truck, a private vehicle under contract with the Postal Service to carry mail—and there it met its fate.

DeLong said seven drivers and one of the wives formed a gang and began rifling firstclass mail pouches. They took money, credit cards, even firearms, he said, and threw the remains in the Quinnipiac River where they floated into the Sound.

Altogether, 50,000 pieces of mail, including my card, got thrown in the river between Thanksgiving and New Year's. The mail started showing up along the banks Christmas Day, but some of it floated across to New York State before it was found.

All eight were arrested, three served time, four got suspended sentences and the last case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

The inspector said the court held the mail for evidence for more than a year. Then the postmen had to put it all together, matching card with envelope. I'm sure they had no trouble with Ed's handwriting. It is unique.

About 95 per cent of the mail was returned, although some people just got envelopes.

"We have to deliver it, no matter how late it is," the postman said, as he handed me Ed's letter.

Ed's now back on our Christmas card list.

Congress Expected To Boost GI-Bill Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to improve GI- Bill benefits for Vietnam veterans this year, but it is not yet clear when the lawmakers will act or how much they will provide.

Most observers readily concede that educational benefits available to Vietnam veterans are not as good as those provided for troops who returned form World War II and the Korean War.

The House already has approved a 48- per- cent increase in apprentice and on-the - job training' programs, more money for job and school counseling, steps designed to cut red tape, and making some benefits available to veterans with less- than- honorable discharges.

The House also has called for a 14- per- cent hike in individual payments to veterans who return to school. That's higher than the 8- per-cent boost recommended by the Nixon administration, but Senate Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., has proposed pay increases up to nearly 40 per cent.

Hartke says his bill would bring Vietnam veterans' benefits up to the level enjoyed by World War II veterans by translating World War II benefit figures into 1972 dollars.

The Indiana senator's legislation would raise monthly benefits for single veterans going to school from the current $175 to $244.

U.S. Ground Forces To Repel Reds Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ruled out for now the reintroduction of U.S. ground forces to repel the enemy thrust into South Vietnam. But he is holding open his option of sending waves of American war planes against North Vietnamese targets.

The President's stance was reported by reliable sources after Nixon and his top advisers held an urgent round of conferences Monday to ponder ways of countering the strongest Communist push since Tet of 1968.

As the strategy sessions continue, administration spokesmen are stressing that turning back the Communist offensive4 is a "South Vietnamese operation."

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler used that phrase twice at a Monday briefing where he reported Nixon was "watching the situation very closely."

Ziegler also cited as "totally reflective of the over-all administration view" a statement by State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey that the North Vietnamese attack was an invasion across the demilitarized zone in violation of the 1968 "understanding" between the United States and North Vietnam.

That 1968 understanding—although never acknowledged by North Vietnam—led President Lyndon B. Johnson to suspend bombing raids deep into North Vietnamese territory.

The McCloskey-Ziegler statements seemed to leave open the possibility of resuming U.S. air strikes well inside North Vietnam—a possibility later reinforced by disclosure of Nixqn's position.

The sources' use of the word "reintroduction" in relation to U.S. ground forces apparently would allow Nixon to order remaining American combat troops to repulse any Communist attack on U.S. installations.

Nixon declared months ago that the U.S. ground-combat role had ended, and his reluctance to send U.S. troops into battle now fits with his expressed confidence• that South Vietnam is prepared to withstand the long-expected Communist offensive.

Pentagon officials said seven U.S. combat maneuver battalions—totaling about 10,000 men—are still in Vietnam but are committed to the security of U.S. installations there.

Breast Feeding Allowed At Pool

SANTA CRUZ, CAlif. (AP) -- The only public swimming pool in Santa Cruz is allowing mothers to breast- feed their infants at the pool.

Three of the mothers did so Monday without interference. Last Friday, however, officials had asked one mother to stop.

"We're just not going to make any big deal about it," said Paul Thiltgen, the city's recreation superintendent. "The reason we acted in the first place on Friday was because we received a complaint."

He said there were no complaints Monday.

Ann Landers

Wife Has Answer To Hubby Bringing One Shoe Home

Dear Ann Landers: You have made so much trouble for me I considered a lawsuit. My cousin who is an attorney says I have no grounds but I want to tell you how your stinky column almost cost me my marriage.

I took the bus home from a lodge meeting a few weeks ago. I took off my shoes and closed my eyes. I've been riding the buses for years and never had any trouble. That night there were about 20 kids on the bus -- I think they were coming from a ballgame. My eyes weren't closed for more than 10 minutes and when I opened them, one of my shoes was missing. This was some creepy kid's idea of a joke.

When I got home I told my wife what happened and that was the end of it. A few days later she hands me your column. It was about the guy who let himself into his girlfriend's house with the back-door key and recognized an old buddy's voice in the back bedroom. He spied the guy's shoes in the living room and decided on the spur of the moment to take one of the shoes and leave quietly. ON his way home he pitched it into Lake Calhoun. He closed his letter by saying, "When the guy's wife reads this she'll know why her husband came home with one shoe the other night."

My wife said, "I wondered about your crazy story of the kids on the bus swiping your show. It didn't make sense, but this does."

I told her that Lake Calhoun is in Minneapolis (we live in New Orleans). She says you changed Ponchartrain to Calhoun to save my neck and it's been very chilly around our house for quite some time. Drop dead. --- Froze Out.

Dear Froze: I give you my solemn word that the letter was from Minneapolis and the guy DID say Lake Calhoun. I hope this thaws things out at your house.

Dear Ann Landers: Twice in the past six months you've asked women who married "mama's boys" why they failed to recognize the "signs" BEFORE marriage. I'd like to answer.

My own family was reasonably well-balanced. We loved and respected one another but we were independent. I had had no experience with "closely knit" families. I didn't know what "signs" to look for. I'm sure now that had I known, I still would have been fooled because that screwy trio kept all symptoms of their sick behavior carefully concealed.

When I was 20, I married a man 24 who had all the external trappings of a mature adult. In the six months we dated he rarely mentioned his parents. Shortly after the wedding I discovered what I was in for. When we had dinner at their home, his mother filled his plate, held his chair, stroked his hair, cooed in his ear and they held hands at the table. His dad witnessed it all with silent approval. After dinner they excluded me from the conversation completely. I might as well have been in Australia. This went on for four years. Thank God we had no children. When I left him no one could understand why.

I am now married to a wonderful man and we have a beautiful family. If I had stayed with my first husband I would not have had any children becaue he spent almost every night at his parent's home. Crazy? You'd better believe it. --Sanity It's Beautiful

Dear San: Thank you for answering the question. It figures.

What's the story on pot, LSD, cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Senf for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed stamped envelope (16cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Armed Policewomen Prove Capability

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) -- The long arm of the law in Ann Arbor may be feminine, carry a gun and be capable of delivering a judo chop to a wrong- doer.

That is the result of a police program under which uniformed, armed women police officers walk street patrols or ride in police cruisers.

"So far as I know, there are only two or three places in the United States -- including Oakland, Calif. -- which make similar use of policewomen," said Police Chief Walter Krasny.

Krasny noted that many police departments assign women as parking meter maids or in the policewomen's division, but he added, "I think our program of using the women in actual police work, along with men, is unusual and it has paid dividends in cutting down on crime."

Krasny said the three policewomen on Ann Arbor's force completed the regular 256- hour basic training course required of all officers and got an additional training in police procedures.

"The women are equi]]ed with small hand guns like our detectives carry and they wear them in a regular pistol holster," Krasny said. "A couple of the girls also took lessons in judo before they started their regular assignments."

The city's 100 patrolmen have accepted the idea of patrolwomen working in the precincts with them and answeri calls, he said.

"We don't shield the patrolwomen from anything but we do try to minimize the chances of them being put in danger as the first unit at a bank holdup alarm or something like that -- instead, they are more apt to draw assignment as a backup unit.

"We have found that the patrolwomen are espceiclly useful in cases dealing with young people and with cutting down on shoplifting and petty thefts."

Heredity Plays Role In Breast Cancer

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla. (AP) -- The danger that breast cancer may run in families is greater--in some cases by nine times--than has been generally supposed, a sicentist said today.

It has been postulated that female relatives of mothers, sisters or aunts who had breast cancer face a two to threefold higher risk of getting such cancers than do unrelated women, said Dr. David E. Anderson of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex.

But, a new on-going analysis of families is finding that the risk can be far higher and even nine times greater for some women, Anderson told an American Cancer Socity seminar for science writers.

The defense is for high-risk women to have frequent checkups using all available techniques to spot breast cancers early when they might be easily curable, the researcher said.

And such a more intensive screening program might well turn up clues as why different types of breast cancers develop and how to prevent them, he said.

The revision in estimating the risk for relatives is based partly upon evidence about differences between breast cancers that occur before or after a woman's menopause, said Anderson, a geneticist and professor of biology at the University of Texas.

The risk for relatives is about three times higher than average if a woman had a breast cancer before menopause, Anderson said.

The risk for relatives is less than two times higher than average if a woman developed breast cancer after menopause.

If a woman's cancer develops in both breasts after menopause, the risk to relatives is 5.4 times higher. If this happens before menopause, then the risk is nine times higher.

The genetic or hereditary factors seem to play a much more important role if women relatives had breast cancers in both breasts before menopause rather than in only one breast, he said.

Over-all, women are generally considered to have a 5 to 7 per cent chance of developing breast cancer during their lifetime, he said.

But, for some women, he said, the chances could reach a 45 per cent chance if they are related to women developing cancer in both breasts before menopause.

Girl Nominated As Page In House

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A 17year-old Montana girl has been nominated to be the first of her sex to serve as a page in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Dick Shoup, R-Mont., has semt the name of Kathi Dayton of Stevensville to House Republican Leader Gerald ,Ford of Michigan for appointment as a page.

Shoup urged that Kathi be judged "strictly upon her personal qualifications and not by her sex."

"Considering that Congress has passed the Equal Rights Amendment," he said, "It's about time the House of Representatives strikes down a few sexual barriers of its own," Shoup wrote. The proposed constitutional amendment is being ratified by the states.

Kathi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dayton, was a page in the Montana legislature last year.

The Senate has four girl pages.

Wife Goes Topless But Can Collect

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Carol had a number of drinks at a beach party, but still managed to put a pretty good front. Particularly, when she appeared amongst her friends in a topless bathing suit.

While her husband gasped audibly, the repercussions of the incident occurred several months later. Her husband suddenly packed his bags and left Carol gasping this time. And, when he didn't come back, Carol started suit against him for maintenance and support.

"When a woman wears a topless bathing suit in public," was the defense "her husband has every right to leave her. And, in doing so, he shouldn't be required to pay her a penny for her support."

"But, I didn't do it intentionally," was Carol's answer. "I got all mixed up by the mixed drinks. Between the hot sun and the cool drinks, I didn't know what side was up."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you direct the payment of support for the immodest Carol?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Carol's immodest conduct on a single occasion would have justified her husband's efforts to conceal the exposed portions of her body, but did not justifying his leaving her. And, even if it did, concluded the judge, by continuing to live with Carol for several months after the incident amounted to his condoning her conduct. (Based upon a 1964 Illinois Court of Appeals Decision)

SEEKS MORE FROSH

URBANA, Ill. (AP) -- The University of Illinois will increase its quota for freshmen students in September 1972 and lower its admission requirements for some curricula.

Charles E. Warwick, director of admissions and records, said the new admissions requirements vary from college to college and are based on projections of how well the applicant may do as a U. of I. student.

Under the new standard, applicants will be admitted if their rank and test scores predict a 3.7 grade average.

Warwick said the quota for incoming freshmen was increased from 5,200 to 5,800 because the number of undergraduate students who returned to U. of I. in September 1971 was considerably below the anticipated total compared with previous enrollment trends.

No End In Sight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Any chance that the baseball season could open as scheduled Wednesday seemed gone today as more charges and accusations flew back and forth between striking players and club owners following the owners' rejection of a proposed settlement by the players' association.

Meanwhile, the heads of the 24 major league teams scheduled a stretegy session in Chicago tonight. But even if the pension dispute were settled, it was unlikely that Wednesday's traditional Cincinnati opener between the Reds and Houston Astros could be played.

Sixteen other teams are slated to open Thursday, the rest on Friday.

"I doubt that we ll make any new proposals," said Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins. "We're staying with our original offer."

The owners rejected Monday night a proposal by the Major League Baseball Players Association, whose members have been on strike since Saturday, to fund the proposed 17 per cent increase in retirement benefits mostly from increased interest which the pension plan is earning.

The plan is designed to earn 4½ per cent annually from its investments but in recent years the rate has gone up to 9-9½ per cent, figuring out to an over-all average of 6 per cent.

Marvin Miller, head of the players' group, said the difference between 4½ and 6 per cent is $660,000 a year.

However, both the players' association and the club owners must agree to its allocation and Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said transfer of the funds "would jeopardize the entire pension plan."

O'Connell said two owners- Griffith and August A. Busch Jr. of the St. Louis Cardinals- indicated the players' latest proposal would take money away from players already retired.

Miller called those charges "outrageous."

The owners have offered $400,000 for the health care segment of the pension package, plus $90,000 to pay for the increased coverage cost for retired players, who must buy the coverage themselves. This would bring the owners' total annual contribution to the overall plan to $5.94 million.

Miller said an independent actuary hired by the pension committee, which consists of two owners and two players, reported that an annual $5.94 million contribution together with the plan's earnings would provide "ample money" for both the health care increase and the 17 per cent in etirement benefits.

Miller said that since most of the assets of the pension plan are in long-term mortgages at the 9-9½ per cent rate, even if that rate went down- say to 8½ per cent- the average rate would continue to rise as long as the yearly rate stayed above 6 per cent.

"We are not asking for any more money than the owners offered in our final meeting at Phoenix March 29," Miller said Monday in making the new proposal.

"We have said all along that money is not the issue. We are accepting the owners' money offer ($5.94 million) and, in addition, offering to guarantee the difference between the 4½ per cent interest the plan is designed to earn and the 6 per cent it is earning.

"It's the same amount of money, but the difference is how we apply the money."

New Record Pike

HUNTSVILLE -- Anything can happen on Leap Year Day which only comes once every four years. If you don't believe it, ask Morris Palmer of Huntsville.

Palmer was fishing for crappie with his friend Harley Grapes in the warm water arm of Thomas Hill Reservoir on Feb. 29. He was using a little bitty hook and a little bitty minnow.

And he caught a great big northern pike -- a state record 13 pound, 10 ounce pike which broke the old mark of 10 pounds, four ounces, set just last November by Ron Kaestner of St. Louis. Palmer's fish was 36½ inches long.

"He hit it hard," Palmer says. "I didn't know what was going on. But he only made one run where I couldn't hold him at all and then he came right on in."

Palmer had no dip net nor gaff, and as the fish lay in the water beside the boat it opened its mouth and the little hook was on the verge of falling out.

"I ran my fingers through his gill and the other hand under his body," Palmer says. "And then just kind of scooped him in the boat." The fish was authenticated by Roland Foster, creel census clerk at the lake. It was weighed on store scales at nearby Kaseyville.

Both authentication by a Department of Conservation employee and accurate weighing are requisites before any fish will be certified a state record.

There is a report of an angler catching a northern of more than 14 pounds, but it was dressed before being authenticated. State record holders receive an engraved plaque from the Department of Conservation.

Campanella, 50, has been in the hospital since last Thursday with an embolism on the lung.

Cardinals Eliminate Maloney Shamsky

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals reduced their roster to 24 players Monday, one under the limit, by cutting righthanders Jim Maloney and Stan Williams and outfielderpinchhitter Art Shamsky.

They were given unconditional releases. The club said it had no immediate plans to add another player.

Meanwhile, in St. Petersburg, Fla., Joe Torre and pitchers Jerry Reuss, Moe Drabowsky, Joe Grzenda and Reggie Cleveland worked out on their own at a bayside park, their training camp closed because of the strike by the Major League Players Association.

A meeting was set for tonight in Chicago for club owners to decide their next move in the dispute over the players demands for more money in the pension fund. The strike seemed certain to prevent the first games of the season from being played Wednesday.

August A. Busch, Cards owner, voiced his disapproval Monday night of a proposal made by the players association to add pension fund interest money to the fund itself. The owners rejected the proposal.

Fogelman said he has been in contact with 15 parties interested in the possibility of buying the club.

A new owner is being sought to increase revenue for the team, which has exhausted the $700,000 it raised by sale of stock to the public last year.

If a new owner is not found by April 10, Fogeman said, a loan of $400,000 will be sought to help the club continue operations temporarily.

"I've discovered that sports franchises cannot be bought and sold overnight, so while we are continuing to exert every effort to sell the club, we have voted on other measures to raise the necessary capital to keep us in operation," he said.

The loan reportedly has been offered by another ABA team, but would depend on approval of that team's board of directors. If the loan is not obtained, Fogeman said, an effort might be made to sell an additional $300,000 in stock.

Of those interested in buying the team, at least one would want to remove it from Memphis, Fogelman said.

"Although we don't want the team to leave Memphis, we must legally accept offers in that direction and then let the stockholders decide," he said.

He said he is looking for an investor with about $600,000 to obtain 51 per cent of the team, or someone to pay off all the stockholders and take complete control.

Among others reportedly showing an interest in the team are a California-based entertainment firm, a Cincinnati man, a Tampa group, a large Memphis corporation, and two groups of New York investors.

Rupp Trophy Honors UCLA Sophomore Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Bill Walton of UCLA will be the first recipient of the Adolph Rupp Trophy for basketball.

Walton was chosen Monday in balloting by sportscasters and writers in all 50 states. He received more than four times the number of votes received by second-place Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana.

The award will be presented at a banquet Wednesday in Lexington.

Walton will not be present to recive the trophy, nor will UCLA coach Johnny Wooden. Wooden said he and Walton had prior commitments.

He added, "I feel it is an outstanding honor to win this award, a new award in honor of one of the great figures in college basketball."

Woden said assistant coach Gary Cunningham would attend the banquet to represent UCLA.

Coach Rupp, who has been retired as UK coach at the mandatory age of 70, said Walton is the "finest young athlete the nation produced this year."

Rupp told the members of the recently-formed Commonwealth Athletic Club, sponsors of the trophy, "Your selection this year was absolutely fool-proof.

"I've never in all my years of college basketball seen a boy play the way he does, do the things he's done," Rupp said.

Walton led UCLA to its eighth NCAA championship last month, defeating Rupp's Wildcats.

Owners Offer Stands

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota Twins President Calvin Griffith, in Chicago today for a meeting of owners or representatives from the 24 major league baseball clubs, says the owners will reaffirm their rejection of a Major League Baseball Players Association proposal.

"All of the owners will reconfirm what our Players Relations Comittee has already decided," he said prior to going to Chicago. "I doubt that we will make any new proposals. We're standing with our orginal offer—to continue the present benefits at a cost of $400,000."

Griffith said Monday that the decision to turn down the proposal to put the $490,000 offer orginally made by the owners for health benefit improvements into the pension plan was made after a conference call among members of the Players Relations Committee.

"We went over it and our actuaries advised us not to accept it," he said. "It wasn't in the best interest of baseball overall."

Griffith maintained the money would have to come from money set aside for pension reserve, primarily for players already retired.

"The committee does not want to take money away from the players who have already retired," the Twins president said. "Those boys are entitled to as much as the ones playing now."

Griffith said the entire package would amount to $1,021,000.

"We have a problem ahead," he said. "We're not going to restructure this pension plan overnight."

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH

Leonardo da Vinci's famed drawing, "Proportions of Man", is the main design for a new commemorative stamp by the United Nations in honor of World Health Day April 7. The same design appears on both the 15 cent and the 80 francs (Switzerland denomination) adhesives.

The World Health Organization, an arm of the U.N. sponsoring World Health Day, is using postage stamps to help publicize its efforts. At present, WHO is conducting and coordinating research on the causes, development and prevention of heart diseases.

The original drawing by da Vinci hangs in the Academy of Fine Arts in Venice. The designer of the new stamp is George Hamori of Australia.

Collectors may obtain first day covers by sending remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, plus a service charge of five cents, in either money order or certified check. Do not send cash. The outside envelope must be clearly marked "FDC — WHD — 15c." Send to United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, PO Box 5900 Grand Central Station, N.Y. 10017, prior to April 7.

An 8-cent stamped embossed envelope saluting the first U.S. International Transportation Exposition will be issued by the U.S. Postal Service May 27. "Transpo 72" will be the first exposition of this type ever developed by the U.S. government. It will provide an international forum for the exchange of ideas and information to assist in the solution of transportation problems on a world wide basis.

Recently we reported about two new issues from Israel honoring Passover and the plight of Soviet Jewry. A further announcement by the Israel Philatelic Agency reveals that a third set of stamps was issued on that same date. The new set consisted of five stamps.

The five new Israeli stamps are a tribute to five artists who specialized in Jewish themes. The works and artists are: "The Scribe," by Boris Schatz; "Sarah," by Abel Pann; "Zefat," by Menahem Shemi; "Old Jerusalem," by Jacob Steinhardt; and "Resurrection," by Aaron Kahana.

All the stamps mentioned are available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

The first volume of the new Stanley Gibbons Catalogue of the "Foreign Countries of Europe" soon will be on the market. It will cover countries from A through F and range from Aegean Islands to French Colonies.

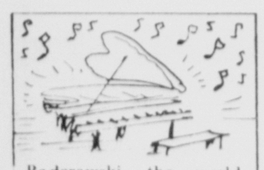
The importance of water is stressed by Surinam in a new set of its stamps. Featured is a drop of water and a running tap to mark the 40th anniversary of that South American country's waterworks. Until Surinam's waterworks were constructed in 1932, the people depended on wells for water and had to boil it for drinking and cooking.



Paderewski, the world-famous musician, was also the first premier of the Republic of Poland!

Maple syrup is made from the sap of the sugar and black maple trees. The World Almanac notes that the sap is tapped in the early spring when it begins to rise. An average maple yields between 10 and 20 gallons of sap, but to produce a gallon of syrup about 40 gallons of sap must be boiled.

An old man sat in his rocking chair and he thought of many things that had happened during his years and some of his thoughts brought him joy and some brought him tears, as his thoughts raced back over all the years he had lived.

And then he thought of when he was a boy playing with his Christmas toys that santa had brought him for being a good little boy.

Then he said to himself how on thoughted children can be for oft times they have set on santas knees.

But anyway the toys made me as happy as any child could be, then he thought of his own children that had also sat upon his knees and he was as happy as any father could be.

Then he thought of his parents that had gone on before and he would never in this life see them any more. Then he thought of his brothers and sisters that lived far away and he hoped he would see them again some day. Then he thought of his wife that he loved so dear and he knew that he would meet her in heaven above.

Then his thoughts traveled back over his Journey through life, he thought of his children and he thought of his wife and he thought of their happiness when they were at home, but now -- he was left all alone.

Then he said to himself, my Journey through life seems to be in the past, for nothing in this would can last --

No. 1

Sam, who had drifted away after years of marriage into the arms of his secretary, played by Peggy Matthews.

Act III involved the anguish of a mother and father when they learn that at the last moment before her wedding their daughter; Mimsey, has locked herself in the bathroom and refuses to come out.

After much soul-searching and reflection they are unable to figure out why. Finally, Mimsey tells them. She is afraid her marriage will be like theirs, a loveless battle ground.

At this point the bridegroom enters. He is the only person who can stop Mimsey's foolishness, which he does. "Mimsey," he commands, "Cool it."

At that point, she unlocked the bathroom door, and with the problem forgotten, the wedding proceeds.

Hope Terrell and Jim Wenneker, gave perhaps the best performances of the evening as the embattled parents. Mimsey was played by Peggy Matthews. The bridegroom was played by David Boyer.
